Conflict of Interest in Statin Clinical Trials (2005-2015)

Source: The Journal of American Cardiology

A meta-analysis found that nearly 80 percent of the trials had a conflict of interest, and almost 60 percent involved over half of the authors.

“It is simply no longer possible to believe much of the clinical research that is published, or to rely on the judgment of trusted physicians or authoritative medical guidelines. I take no pleasure in this conclusion, which I reached slowly and reluctantly over my two decades as an editor of The New England Journal of Medicine.”

- Dr. Marcia Angell
